LINE-UP OF GIRLS' GAME

Police Protection Asked and Granted ---None Under Thirty Years to Play.

The managers of both teams are anxious for police protection on the day of the game and especially during the parade. The following letters were passed between Chief of Police Geo. Culver in regard to mounted officers taking part in the parade and giving their protection to the teams especially:

Geo. Culver, Chief of Police, City.

Dear Sir:—

As you probably have noticed from the press the Merry Widows and Old Maids and other members of the city administration, as well as other prominent citizens, will be out in parade Saturday, Aug. 17 at 5 p. m., on which date at Sunrise Park will be given a benefit for the Ada baseball boys of our city. Now chief I feel a little uneasy about taking these Merry Widows and Old Maids out on the streets without police protection. I would therefore ask that you give us a full detail of mounted police to be in command of the chief, thanking you for many courtesies heretofore shown.

Yours truly,

MANAGERS.

In answer to above, Chief Culver, sent the following reply:

Managers Both Teams.

Dear Ladies:—

The request for police protection and an escort in the parade of the Merry Widows and Old Maids on Saturday, Aug. 17, will be granted.

and I shall in person, head the procession to the ball park and safely guard the infants who take part in the game. Wishing you every success in such a charitable cause.

I remain,

GEO. CULVER,

Chief of Police.

The lineup for the game has been announced as follows:

Merry Widows.

Mary Couch, p; Beulah Worthington, 1b; May Leace, ss; Art Adair, 2b; Alma Baker, 3b; Ada Warren, lf; Nannie Couch, rf; Minnie West, cf; Miss Matthews substitute.

Old Maids.

Minne McCain, p; Rubie Baker, 1b; Sallie Taylor, ss; Dorothy Tanner, 2b; Hallie Oglesby, 3b; Ruth Roddie, lf; Jennie Roddie, rf; Grace Rodamer, cf; Minnie Poole, substitute.

The game will be umpired by C. M. Chauncey and Dol Moss and will be played by 1908 rules. Both umpires will be housed in a square concrete crib with iron grating on through as a means of protection against mutiny.

Mrs. D. W. Huffer has donated her services and automobile to carry the old Maids to the park, also in the parade with flying colors of red. Rain checks will be issued only after the ninth inning; they may be used for admission at the next game—1909.

W. J. BRYAN IS NOTIFIED

Great Crowd at Lincoln and Much Enthusiasm---J. H. Kern an Orator.

Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 12.—"Recognizing that I am indebted for my nomination to the rank and file of our party and that my election must come, if it comes at all, from the unpurchased and unpurchasable suffrage of the American people, if entrusted with the responsibilities of this high office, I promise to consecrate whatever ability I have to the one purpose of making this in fact a government in which the people rule, a government which will do justice to all and offer to every one the highest possible stimulus to great effort, by insuring to each the enjoyment of his just share of the proceeds of his toils, no matter in what part of the vineyard he labors or, to what occupation, profession or calling he devotes himself."

Thus spoke W. J. Bryan this afternoon in accepting the nomination as the candidate of the democratic party for the presidency of the United States.

Amid cheers and waving of flags, Mr. Bryan was escorted from the Lincoln Hotel through the streets of Lincoln to the capitol grounds, where the notification took place.

In the carriage with him was John W. Kern of Indiana, the candidate for the vice presidency. It was no new experience for Nebraska's distinguished citizen, he having twice before been similarly honored by his party, but it was the first time that Mr. Bryan's home town had been afforded the opportunity to participate in the ceremonies.

Great Crowds Greet Bryan.

Long before the time set for the exercises to begin, the capitol grounds had become packed with humanity. It was a veritable sea of faces that met Mr. Bryan's gaze as he stepped to the front of the platform and received the official word from Henry D. Clayton of Alabama that he was democracy's head of the ticket. As the democratic candidate emerged from the capitol building on to the platform, in company with Gov. Sheldon, Mayor Brown and others of the committee on arrangements, a mighty cheer went up from the multitude which continued for several minutes. As soon as Mr. Bryan was seated, National Chairman Norman E. Mack, who was introduced by Vice Chairman P. L. Hall, rapped for order. Rev. Father John F. Nugent of Des Moines, Iowa, delivered the invocation. Before introducing Mr. Clayton, Chairman Mack presented John W. Kern, the vice presidential nominee, who made a brief address.

Mr. Kern's Speech.

Mr. Kern spoke as follows: "While my friends, the chairman of the national committee, has been kind enough to introduce me as the democratic candidate for vice president, I as yet have no certain official notice of the fact and I therefore can not make a political speech on this occasion. I came here to greet these western people and to join with them without regard to political affiliation in paying tribute to the citizen of Lincoln whom you all love, to the foremost citizen of America, William Jennings Bryan. I have been deeply impressed with what I have seen in Lincoln; it was worth the trip from Indiana, across the Mississippi and across the Missouri, to witness that splendid neighborly spirit which has prompted this magnificent non-partisan demonstration in honor of the man who, without regard to political affiliation, we all love and that leads me to say that,

The recent primary returns are so slow coming in, that some of the candidates may not know whether they are nominated in time to make a canvass before the general election.

That street sprinkler could more effectively lay the dust by covering a greater territory, and letting out more water. It is fine, what there is of it, but we can't get too much of a good thing.

The business and professional men of Ada are liberally taking space in the News's special edition, and none of them will regret the amount it costs. If you have not done so, arrange at once to be represented.

Vice Presidential Candidate Sherman on the republican ticket, is a director or officer in so many corporations and trust companies, that the contributions to the campaign fund from these sources will cause him to contribute quite a sum indirectly.

The Texas democratic convention in session the past week, has had a lively time. The prohibition submissionists had a majority in the convention and Senator Joe Bailey's friends carried off all the honors, and either of these issues in Texas will always insure a warm contest.

Mr. Kern, the democratic nominee for vice president, is an orator, statesman and patriot. His short speech at the notification of Mr. Bryan clearly shows the vice presidential candidate on the democratic ticket to be a spell-binder and vote-getter. Watch the returns from Indiana!

The republican leaders at their Oklahoma City meeting had rather a warm time. Flynn-Hunter-Cade combination got the worst of it from McGuire-Norris-Creager combine. The latter had the negroes with them, and the dusky republican brother held the balance of power. That is right—they furnish the votes.

Send your dollar to the First National Bank at Ada, to aid in the election of Bryan and Kern. Your name will be published in the News, and later Treasurer Haskell will send you a receipt for your contribution. Do not delay this important matter, as the national committee badly needs funds. The democratic party will have to depend upon the small amounts from the masses to provide the means for campaign expenses. In this contest, every citizen who desires a government for the country and the best interests of the many, ought to aid in overthrowing republican misrule.

after all, the great masses of the American people are not so far part, Partisan spirit no longer runs so high that we can not now and then get out of the miasma of political partisanship, take a step up higher and breathe the fresh, pure air of American patriotism. We recognize in spite of political differences, not only the fatherhood of God, but the brotherhood of man. It reminds me, although we may differ widely, on questions of political economy, of finance, as to the best method of carrying on the complex affairs of this, the greatest government beneath the sun, while we may differ on all these things, and differ earnestly, yet when it comes to a devotion to a common country and love for the grand old starry banner, which is its emblem, we are as indivisible as the sea. For your kindly greetings to myself, I thank you."

August time, tells on the nerves. But that spiritless, no ambition feeling can be easily and quickly altered by taking what is known by druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Within 48 hours after beginning to use the Restorative, improvement will be noticed. Of course, full health will not immediately return. The pain, however, will surely follow. And best of all, you will realize and feel your strength and ambition as it is returning. Outside influences depress first the "inside nerves" then the stomach, heart, and kidneys will usually fail. Strengthen these failing nerves with Dr. Shoop's Restorative and see how quickly health will be yours again. Sold by G. M. Ramsey.

Important.

It is the earnest desire of the president of the 25000 Club that all members, as well as all other citizens interested in the welfare of Ada, meet at the club rooms Friday evening, the 14th, inst., for the discussion of important matters. The subject of public improvements is just now of special interest to our town and requires the careful consideration of property owners to insure the best benefits to the whole town instead of certain localities.

Rheumatism

I have found a tried and tested cure for Rheumatism! Not a remedy that will straighten the distorted limbs of chronic cripples, nor turn bony growths back to flesh again. That is impossible. But I can now surely kill the pains and pangs of this deplorable disease.
In Germany—with a Chemist in the City of Darmstadt—I found the last ingredient with which Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy was made a perfected, dependable prescription. Without that last ingredient, I successfully treated many, many cases of Rheumatism; but now, at last, it finally cures all curable cases of this heretofore much dreaded disease. Those sand-like granular wastes, found in Rheumatic Blood, seem to dissolve and pass away under the action of this remedy as freely as does sugar when added to pure water. And then, when dissolved, these poisonous wastes freely pass from the system, and the cause of Rheumatism is gone forever. There is now no real need—no actual excuse to suffer longer without help. We sell, and in confidence recommend

Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy

SENATOR GORE HERE.

The Distinguished Senator Spent Wednesday Night With His Old Boyhood Friend, Dr. Ligon.

Senator T. P. Gore of Lawton arrived in the city Wednesday afternoon from Sulphur, where he delivered an address. He was met at the train by his old friend, M. W. Ligon, who accompanied him to the club rooms where an informal reception was held in his honor. After meeting several citizens and chatting with many old friends, the senator repaired to the hospitable home of Dr. Ligon and was there a guest this morning until train time. The senator visited many friends over the city, and gave the glad hand to those he met. He left on the noon Katy for Caddo, where he speaks tomorrow.

The senator had nothing important to give out. Commenting upon the speech of acceptance by Mr. Bryan, which appeared in the morning papers, he said that it was masterful, and would get telling results. He remarked that he will spend the major part of September in the national campaign, but did not know at this time where the committee would place him. There seems to be no improvement in the condition of the senator's eyes, but he stated that he will continue the treatment when he returns to Washington.

and equipment, and says that if the people will give the proper encouragement he will place this machinery in Ada. Mr. Jones is going to meet the citizens of the town in a meeting at the club rooms Friday evening when a free discussion of the subject will be had. This gentleman comes with strong letters from leading Ardmore citizens, and should he come to Ada the town will be benefited.

Then it was discovered that the mule was traded to a man named Cox over in Old Town. This morning, within four hours after the local officers and the Anti-Horse Thief Association got to work on the case the mule was recovered and the thief will undoubtedly be captured as he is known.

PROBLEM OF THE AMERICAN TRAMP

HOW SHALL VAGRANCY EVIL BE CHECKED?

Laws of Various States Have Proved Unequal to the Task—Elaborate System for the Cure of Habitual Idleness in Force on the Continent of Europe—Is Striking Contrast to the Futile Efforts That Have Been Made Here in the United States.

NEW YORK.—The course of the vagrant's life is a vicious circle. Street, park bench, cheap lodging house, court, jail, street, brake-beam, court, jail, etc.; so it goes, from month to month, from hand to mouth, from city to city. More accurately stated, the vagrant's course is spiral and downward, with accelerated momentum toward demoralization, disease and death. Along his road are certain "rescue stations"—charitable societies, missions, curbstone breadlines, industrial homes, personal visitations in alcoholic wards. These are efforts to extend the helping hand, to switch the vagrant from the circular track to the "straight ahead line." But generally the momentum is too great. Failures are recorded far in excess of even imagined successes writes O. F. Lewis of the Charity Organization Society in the New York Times.

When we seek, by imprisonment, to deal with the individual "vag," what do we find? Generally ineffective, inadequate, unjust methods of punishment, so futile as to be ridiculous, were they not so tragic. We find correctional methods in jail that, instead of correcting, debase, methods as vagrant as are the prisoners. We believe that each man who is able should contribute his share of the day's work. Nature abhors a vacuum, and the community in general abhors the constitutional idler. If the drone work not, neither shall he eat. We believe that crime should be punished. Vagrancy is a crime under the law. Punishment is generally and necessarily effected by the restraint of liberty, within a penal institution. Vagrants are imprisoned generally in jails or workhouses.

But how? What are the conditions of American jails?

Do they check vagrancy?
Do they punish justly?
Do they reform?

AN ANSWER has recently been made public which is a scathing arraignment of conditions in a great majority of American county jails, all the more scathing and staggering because made after a careful investigation by a committee of the National Prison Congress, which does not seek sensationalism. The following paragraphs are almost random quotations from the report:

"If the only or chief purpose of jails were to keep wild beasts in cages, most of the jails are well enough adapted for this purpose. . . . The customary mode of serving food is revolting, demoralizing and often dangerous to health. . . . Often we must imagine bunk over bunk, in the same cell or cage, crowded until the horrors of stench or suffocation are indescribable. . . . Under an open jail system the filthiest, vilest prisoner punishes or tortures those who have not yet sunk to his level. . . . The very struc-

"In Birmingham, Ala., 240 men in 72 cells; 25 women in ten cells. . . . The inmates of jails are chiefly of two classes—those awaiting trial and convicted misdemeanants. . . . The ordinary term of convicted misdemeanants, vagrants and inebriates is too short for any sort of industrial training or systematic production. A careful study of the situation in all parts of the land has long ago driven many to the conclusion that we must have district labor colonies or workhouses for those convicted of offenses, and that the term of degenerates must be at least two years, if we really intend to fit them for useful lives."

THE committee plainly shows that under present conditions and laws the county jail must provide for males and females; children, youth and adults; first offenders, habitual criminals, vagabonds, prostitutes; witnesses held for their testimony; poor debtors whose crime is their poverty; idiots, imbeciles, insane, epileptics, persons arrested on suspicion, and apoplectics whom the sapient policeman could not distinguish from drunkards. All these, says the report, are often under one roof and management, in a building so built that cries and whispers travel along a corridor with cages open at the side.

Now, what chance is there in the average jail for the reformation of the imprisoned vagrant? We may think that Jack London draws the long bow in his picturesque descriptions of life on the road, but in his tale of imprisonment in the Erie county jail he never wrote of such horrifying conditions as are described by the report of the committee, of which Prof. Charles R. Henderson of the University of Chicago was chairman. What chance, above all, has the detained witness or suspect, held in the jail for his testimony, and innocent before the law until he is proven guilty? What chance has he of not suffering contamination and gaining a hatred of society that will not die? In many county jails the only exercise "enjoyed" by the prisoners is in a common large room, with steel grating separating it from the surrounding corridors, and called in jail parlance the "bull pen."

ARE we not then in a wretched dilemma, we who urge that the vagrant receive treatment that will deter and reform? Shall we, knowing jail conditions, allow him to roam at large? But the vagrant habit is fostered by idleness, mendicancy and the absence of prosecution. Even as it is, the unwillingness of many police officials or magistrates to prosecute tramps is well known. When the vagrant is told to "get out of town or be run in" he of course decamps, and the town finances are spared, while the neighboring community receives the shifted burden. Yet if the convicted vagrant is sent to jail he becomes a source of contamination to instances to the penitentiary. Boston, Lowell and other Massachusetts towns report sending some vagrants to the state farm, where there is a nine months' sentence. In these jails and workhouses the labor required, when there is any, consists generally of breaking stone in quarry or in jail-yard, roadmaking, chaircaning, chair-making and farm work. This work is "on paper." There is little or no effort made to bring reformatory influences to bear on those serving short sentences or to teach a trade. Even at the Massachusetts state farm, where the workhouse conditions are far better than in most correctional institutions where misdemeanants of the vagrant or inebriate class are confined, the industries maintained seem to be far more largely carried on as sentences than as chances to earn a living.

MANY of the cities use the Bertillon system of identification measurements. One chief reports asking the "usual questions," another the "name and address"—as though a vagrant's name and address would be of value! What a contrast is this to the elaborate Belgian system for the identification of vagrants, which centers in the "caser centrale de vagabondage," a general identification bureau at Brussels? In Belgium the process of trying an arrested vagrant is speedy and thorough. As soon as the police arrest a vagrant they communicate by telegraph with Brussels. Within a few hours there is sent back from Brussels by telegraph a full description of the vagrant and of his previous career, if anything of the prisoner is on record. On the following morning the magistrate, who is a graduate of the university, has before him sufficient material about this particular vagrant ed vagrant is sent to a maison de refuge, which, besides acting as a kind of almshouse for the aged and handicapped, serves somewhat as do the voluntary colonies of Germany for those wanderers who at the time of their coming within the law are unfit through ignorance, illness or inefficiency to make their living.

Thirdly, Belgium does not expect that any large proportion of its vagrant population will be reformed. Most of the vagrants at Merxplas are recidivists, repeaters, who have reached their present position through drink.

Fourthly, Belgium believes that vagrancy, being a social disease developed through months and years, cannot be cured by 30 days of idleness in a demoralizing jail. The average term of detention is 16 months, long enough to effect a considerable cure, if cure is possible.

In Germany and in Switzerland the treatment of the habitual vagrant is similar to that prevailing in Belgium. There are 24 compulsory labor colonies in Germany, the average length of sentence being one year. Numerous industries are carried on and the cost is comparatively small. These workhouses have diminished vagrancy, while the 34 voluntary labor colonies, accommodating nearly 4,000 persons, show no evidence of any substantial improvement resulting from the time spent in the colonies. In Switzerland there are several compulsory colonies, the sentences being from six months to two years.

THE Swiss colony of Witzwil, which Mr. Edmond Kelly has recently described in detail in his book on "The Elimination of the Tramp," shows that in a certain proportion of cases the inmates committed to a compulsory to enable him to form an adequate judgment of the case.

Coupled with this carefulness and completeness of investigation, registration, and adequacy of judgment is the Belgian system for the punishment of vagrants, which differs so essentially from our opportunist methods as to be staggering at first to contemplate. We "bunch" our vagrants in law. In New York state the man with no money, no work, and no visible means of support is a vagrant. That such a man is not often jailed, unless the case is aggravated by other factors, is not the fault of the law, so to speak, but is due to the unwillingness of magistrates to commit the unemployed homeless, or to the indifference of the authorities. But in Belgium the state of "no work, no home, no money" is not a crime, unless there is added to that the state of intentional idleness.

BUT when Belgium does commit a vagrant, then woe to the liberty of that vagrant for a long period! Conviction is to a depot de mendicite from two to seven years. The depot de mendicite is at Merxplas, a great industrial colony with accommodations for about 5,000 prisoners. Here there occurs a classification, the worst elements being at night placed in solitary confinement and otherwise placed under strict discipline. Intensive labor is carried on, the work being graded according to the physical ability of the individual inmates.

The Belgian treatment of vagrants brings out prominently several facts. In the first place, Belgium believes in getting vagrants off the streets and highways. Some years ago the minister of justice declared that there was no vagabondage in Belgium. This statement needs interpreting. There is probably fairly little vagrancy along the highways, because every vagrant must be apprehended and made to show cause through his papers, or by the absence of a record at Brussels, why he should not be sent to the depot de mendicite. The fact that Merxplas contains about 5,000 inmates, and that the average period of detention is 18 months, and that the majority of the inmates are returned to Merxplas for succeeding offenses of vagrancy, shows that vagrancy in Belgium is not eradicated from the social body, but removed as much as possible from society.

SECONDLY, Belgium does not regard all vagrants alike. If there are extenuating circumstances, or if the case of vagrancy seems the result of physical incapacity, the apprehend-labor colony do not reform and rejoin the ranks of the industrial army. A trained English investigator stated recently, regarding Witzwil, that there is no doubt that the fact of having worked hard for a year or 18 months makes a man apt to get into the habit of working, and this is believed to be the actual result in Switzerland.

What, then, shall we say regarding the treatment of vagrancy in the United States? First, that at present it is thoroughly inadequate. As statistics and the accompanying diagrams show, 67 per cent. of the commitments to penal institutions are to county jails and workhouses in which the conditions are often exceptionally bad. Drunkenness, vagrancy and disorderly conduct were responsible for more than half the commitments during 1904 to penal institutions in the United States. For these three offenses the county jails and workhouses, to which the large majority of offenders are committed, offer practically no reformatory influences. For more serious crimes, such as burglary, robbery, assault, forgery, etc., there are reformatories and state prisons, in which latter institutions some reformatory influence is felt.

THE sentences for vagrancy are in over 90 per cent. of the cases for six months or less, and the largest percentage of commitments is shown to be for less than one month. No cure for vagrancy can be had under such conditions. New York state leads all other states of our country in the number of its commitments for vagrancy. The burden of vagrancy in the United States was represented in 1904 by over 28,000 commitments, being about 20 per cent. of all commitments to penal institutions during that year.

This brief resume of the present conditions inevitably points to the necessity of a material change in our system of combating vagrancy. In this connection it is of special interest that within recent months a bill has been drafted in New York state providing for the establishment of a farm colony upon lines very similar to that of the Swiss compulsory colony, Witzwil. This bill, which has the approval of the leading charitable societies of New York city and of several trunk lines terminating in New York, and which will be introduced into the next legislature, provides for the establishment in New York state of a compulsory labor colony, witheterminate sentence, regular labor, reformatory influences and classification of prisoners.

ELECTRIC CANNON

WAR ENGINE WITH RANGE OF TWO HUNDRED MILES.

Sea Coast Cities Could Be Destroyed by Shells from Ships Far Out at Sea Beyond Range of Ordinary Guns.

An electric cannon with a range of 200 miles is said to be one of the recent developments in war equipment, tidings of such a tremendous weapon having come from England. With such a cannon France could easily destroy great cities of England, and England could as easily do this same by France. Germany could plant her batteries 200 miles from the French border and blot out great cities, and the French could give them tit for tat. A gun placed on top of the Alps could destroy countless millions of dollars worth of property.

How would Boston feel if a fleet 200 miles out in the Atlantic were able to train guns on her? Or how would Canada feel if from a position well on the United States side of the Canadian boundary we were able to hurl huge shells at her?

Some wireless scout might report that a missile was on the way. It would take a full minute, even with the enormous initial velocity of six miles a second, for the destructive visitor to arrive. A minute is long enough to get thoroughly scared in, but scarcely gives the opportunity for an entire population to escape.

If there were any sound accompanying the discharge, it would be heard about 16 minutes after the arrival of the projectile. Probably no warning would be given.

Let the wireless buzz and the aeroplanes go scouting at all points of the compass in search of the destroyer of cities. Boston might be blotted out in the few hours required, with the best luck, to find the enemy. And if the location of the enemy is known at the beginning, and fire fights fire, the enemy has a city for a target while the defenders must aim at a tiny bull's-eye.

Such speculations would seem to belong to the school of novelistic dreamers of the future. However, they are soberly advanced as matters not very far over the future horizon by Col. Frederic N. Maude, C. B., a military authority and lecturer in military history at Manchester university, in England.

It appears to Col. Maude, writing in the Contemporary Review, that the invention of the electric gun is the greatest discovery of the age. It is the invention of Mr. Simpson, formerly known as a metallurgical expert. It is unlike any gun ever known, since it has no recoil. The lay mind can hardly conceive the possibility of a projectile leaving a gun at terrific speed, yet having no backward push. Whether powder or compressed air is used in the ordinary gun, there is a powerful recoil, proportionate to the charge and the weight of the weapon. It may be surmised that the electric projectile is not driven, but drives itself by means of propellers, constituting an aerial torpedo or a self-directed aeroplane of destruction.

There is no sound or smoke. The initial velocity is 30,000 feet a second. This is traveling close to six miles a second, a speed heretofore undreamed of for projectiles of any sort.

Half a mile a second is about the limit for powder-driven projectiles.

Boston at Mercy of Hostile Fleet.

The electric weapon is able to propel missiles of any desirable dimensions and weight up to 2,000 pounds.

It is imaginable that at a distance of 50 miles the velocity would be sufficient to bore any battleship or building with a solid projectile, while the mere conveyance of high explosives at a greater range would be sufficiently destructive.

It is assumed that 200 miles will be the effective range. At this estimate the nations of Europe could mutually devastate their cities without overstepping frontiers. A small anarchistic state could blow up half a dozen metropolises. Bombs could be dispensed from London to a circuit of cities including Liverpool, Amsterdam, Brussels and Paris. The channel would interpose no obstacle to a duel between the French and English capitals, torpedoes flying through the air in opposite directions to destroy Westminster and the Pantheon, the houses of parliament and the Louvre.

The dirigible balloon and the aeroplane are the only means suggested to cope with the new terror. They might explore the country, locate the enemy and drop packages of dynamite on him unless he annihilated them first with an aerial torpedo. The airships, however, will likely become complementary to warfare by electric gun.

THE SEAT OF LIFE

IT IS LOCATED IN MYSTERIOUS GLAND UNDER THE BRAIN.

Dr. Charles E. de M. Sajous Claims That It Is, and Says His Discovery Means Much for Therapeutics.

There is one great question now agitating the medical profession: Has the seat of life been found at last? Is the whole science of medicine to be revolutionized by the discovery of the functions of a body in the human organism about which as little has been known in the past as about the perplexing appendix, that has caused so much trouble?

An impossibility—a ludicrous impossibility—of course, many will assert promptly. Galen and Hippocrates have been too long dead, Metchnikoff and Koch too long alive, to make the idea anything less than laughable. Yet, denuded of its scientific phraseology, it was precisely that which brought together, in Philadelphia, a short time ago, the two great national bodies.

They joined to hear, from the lips of Dr. Charles E. de M. Sajous, a discourse on "The Auto-Protective Resources of the Body: A New Foundation for Scientific Therapeutics."

Just where the head rests upon the column of the spine, directly under the human brain, is located a small gland to which science succeeded in giving a name and nothing more.

Science called it the pituitary body, Sajous' work, it is said, has demonstrated that this gland is the last, secret stronghold of the life of man; and the fluids which the pituitary body produces are those which govern the products of the adrenal system.

Located on the very top of the spinal column, immediately below the brain, protected on all sides with the utmost care, lies the pituitary body. To its role in the economy of the human body a recently published textbook of physiology devotes seven lines. Indeed, beyond the fact that it was supposed to provide some sort of a secretion—the purpose of which had never been found—nothing was known as to the actual role of its forward lobe; while its posterior lobe had been relegated to the rank of a remnant from man's evolution.

Sajous demonstrates, it is claimed, not only that this conception is false, but that the pituitary body, in its relations to the functions of the body at large, is even more important than the brain itself. None of these functions is impaired when the cerebral hemispheres of the brain are removed; all cease, however, when the pituitary body is submitted to the same removal.

The brain, as the organ of the mind, can utilize the spinal system, with which it is connected, to execute its mandates; but the spinal system is also supplied with its own brain, the pituitary body, which Sajous terms the somatic brain, the governing organ of all vegetative functions. He shows, moreover, that this somatic brain contains a delicate organ whose mission is to protect the body against disease.

Sajous studied this organ in the animal scale, and found it in all animals down to such low forms as mollusks, where it bears a suggestive name given to it by zoologists, the test organ, or osphradium, and is known by them to have the function of testing the water for these lowly beings as they pass through it and take it in.

In the higher vertebrates, including man, this test-organ protects against disease.

Thus it is asserted that in the "somatic brain," in the pituitary body—in that new and tiny brain of the human being whose functions Sajous has at last discovered—lies the ultimate seat of human life, lies the citadel which is the very center of the agents that guard against the destruction of life.

ture of the ordinary jail is radically wrong, and offends against the laws of health. . . . Almost all the reports from jails record the dull, monotonous, maddening tramp of prisoners walking aimlessly up and down the corridor. . . . It is the path of lunacy. Why not have walled yards in the open air, partly sheltered from rain, covered over with steel wire to prevent escape? But this plan is rarely thought of. . . . Card playing is the universal resource for passing the dull and anxious waking hours."

Many examples are given of excessive overcrowding.

other inmates, and in addition he is often glad to hibernate or spend a few weeks where warmth, food, idleness and the company of vicious fellows is assured. Are we not often, by administering the law, condemning the vagrant to further depths of degeneracy?

What do the reports of chiefs of police show? The writer recently received extended reports from 50 chiefs, representative of many different cities, representative of large and small municipalities. The letters showed that in most instances vagrants are committed to jails, less frequently to workhouses, and in a few

Great Crowd at Lincoln and Much Enthusiasm---J. H. Kern an Orator.

Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 12.—"Recognizing that I am indebted for my nomination to the rank and file of our party and that my election must come, if it comes at all, from the unpurchased and unpurchasable suffrage of the American people, I entrusted with the responsibilities of this high office. I promise to consecrate whatever ability I have to the one purpose of making this in fact a government in which the people rule, a government which will do justice to all and offer to every one the highest possible stimulus to great effort, by insuring to each the enjoyment of his just share of the proceeds of his toils, no matter in what part of the vineyard he labors or to what occupation, profession or calling he devotes himself."

Thus spoke W. J. Bryan this afternoon in accepting the nomination as the candidate of the democratic party for the presidency of the United States.

Amid cheers and waving of flags, Mr. Bryan was escorted from the Lincoln Hotel through the streets of Lincoln to the capitol grounds, where the notification took place.

In the carriage with him was John W. Kern of Indiana, the candidate for the vice presidency. It was no new experience for Nebraska's distinguished citizen, he having twice before been similarly honored by his party, but it was the first time that Mr. Bryan's home town had been afforded the opportunity to participate in the ceremonies.

Great Crowds Greet Bryan.

Long before the time set for the exercises to begin, the capitol grounds had become packed with humanity. It was a veritable sea of faces that met Mr. Bryan's gaze as he stepped to the front of the platform and received the official word from Henry D. Clayton of Alabama that he was democracy's head of the ticket. As the democratic candidate emerged from the capitol building on to the platform, in company with Gov. Sheldon, Mayor Brown and others of the committee on arrangements, a mighty cheer went up from the multitude which continued for several minutes. As soon as Mr. Bryan was seated, National Chairman Norman E. Mack, who was introduced by Vice Chairman P. L. Hall, rapped for order. Rev. Father John F. Nugent of Des Moines, Iowa, delivered the invocation. Before introducing Mr. Clayton, Chairman Mack presented John W. Kern, the vice presidential nominee, who made a brief address.

Mr. Kern's Speech.

Mr. Kern spoke as follows: "While my friends, the chairman of the national committee, has been kind enough to introduce me as the democratic candidate for vice president, I as yet have no certain official notice of the fact and I therefore can not make a political speech on this occasion. I came here to greet these western people and to join with them without regard to political affiliation in paying tribute to the citizen of Lincoln whom you all love, to the foremost citizen of America, William Jennings Bryan. I have been deeply impressed with what I have seen in Lincoln. It was worth the trip from Indiana, across the Mississippi and across the Missouri, to witness that splendid neighborly spirit which has prompted this magnificent non-partisan demonstration in honor of the man who, without regard to political affiliation, we all love and that leads me to say that,

The recent primary returns are so slow coming in, that some of the candidates may not know whether they are nominated in time to make a canvass before the general election.

That street sprinkler could more effectively lay the dust by covering a greater territory, and letting out more water it is fine, what there is of it, but we can't get too much of a good thing.

The business and professional men of Ada are liberally taking space in the News's special edition, and none of them will regret the amount it costs. If you have not done so, arrange at once to be represented.

Vice Presidential Candidate Sherman on the republican ticket, is a director or officer in so many corporations and trust companies, that the contributions to the campaign fund from these sources will cause him to contribute quite a sum indirectly.

The Texas democratic convention in session the past week, has had a lively time. The prohibition submissionists had a majority in the convention and Senator Joe Bailey's friends carried off all the honors, and either of these issues in Texas will always insure a warm contest.

Mr. Kern, the democratic nominee for vice president, is an orator, statesman and patriot. His short speech at the notification of Mr. Bryan clearly shows the vice presidential candidate on the democratic ticket to be a spell-binder and vote-getter. Watch the returns from Indiana!

The republican leaders at their Oklahoma city meeting had rather a warm time. Flynn-Hunter-Cade combination got the worst of it from McGuire-Norris-Creager combine. The latter had the negroes with them, and the lucky republican brother held the balance of power. That is right—they furnish the votes

Send your dollar to the First National Bank at Ada, to aid in the election of Bryan and Kern. Your name will be published in the News, and later Treasurer Haskell will send you a receipt for your contribution. Do not delay this important matter, as the national committee badly needs funds. The democratic party will have to depend upon the small amounts from the masses to provide the means for campaign expenses. In this contest, every citizen who desires a government for the many and the best interests of the country, ought to aid in overthrowing a pliancan misrule.

after all, the great masses of the American people are not so far apart. Partisan spirit no longer runs so high that we can not now and then get out of the miasma of political partisanship, take a step up higher and breathe the fresh, pure air of American patriotism. We recognize in spite of political differences, not only the fatherhood of God, but the brotherhood of man. It reminds me, although we may differ widely, on questions of political economy, of finance, as to the best method of carrying on the complex affairs of this, the greatest government beneath the sun, while we may differ on all these things, and differ earnestly, yet when it comes to a devotion to a common country and love for the grand old starry banner, which is its emblem, we are as indivisible as the sea. For your kindly greetings to myself, I thank you."

August time, tells on the nerves. But that spiritless, no ambition feeling can be easily and quickly altered by taking what is known by druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Restorative Within 48 hours after beginning to use the Restorative, improvement will be noticed. Of course, full health will not immediately return. The pain, however, will surely follow. And best of all, you will realize and feel your strength and ambition as it is returning. Outside influences depress first the "inside nerves," then the stomach, heart, and kidneys will usually fail. Strengthen these failing nerves with Dr. Shoop's Restorative and see how quickly health will be yours again. Sold by G. M. Ramsey.

SENATOR GORE HERE.

The Distinguished Senator Spent Wednesday Night With His Old Boyhood Friend, Dr. Ligon.

Senator T. P. Gore of Lawton arrived in the city Wednesday afternoon from Sulphur, where he delivered an address. He was met at the train by his old friend, Mr. W. Ligon, who accompanied him to the club rooms where an informal reception was held in his honor. After meeting several citizens and chatting with many old friends, the senator repaired to the hospitable home of Dr. Ligon and was there a guest this morning until train time. The senator visited many friends over the city, and gave the glad hand to those he met. He left on the noon Katy for Caddo, where he speaks tomorrow.

The senator had nothing important to give out. Commenting upon the speech of acceptance by Mr. Bryan, which appeared in the morning papers, he said that it was masterful, and would get telling results. He remarked that he will spend the major part of September in the national campaign, but did not know at this time where the committee would place him. There seems to be no improvement in the condition of the senator's eyes, but he stated that he will continue the treatment when he returns to Washington.

Then it was discovered that the mule was traded to a man named Cox over in Old Town. PROBLEM OF THE AMERICAN TRAMP

HOW SHALL VAGRANCY EVIL BE CHECKED?

Laws of Various States Have Proved Unequal to the Task—Elaborate System for the Cure of Habitual Idleness in Force on the Continent of Europe—Is Striking Contrast to the Futile Efforts That Have Been Made Here in the United States.

NEW YORK—The course of the vagrant's life is in a vicious circle. Street park bench cheap lodging house court jail street brake beam court jail etc. so it goes from month to month from hand to mouth from city to city. More accurately stated the vagrant's course is spiral and downward with accelerated momentum toward demoralization, disease and death. Along his road are certain rescue stations—charitable societies' missions curb stone breadlines industrial homes personal visitations in alcoholic wards. These are efforts to extend the helping hand to switch the vagrant from the circular track to the straight ahead line. But generally the momentum is too great. Failures are recorded far in excess of even imagined successes. Writes O. F. Lewis of the Charity Organization Society in the New York Times:

When we seek by imprisonment to deal with the individual vagrant what do we find? Generally ineffective in adequate unjust methods of punishment so futile as to be ridiculous were they not so tragic. We find correctional methods in jail that instead of correcting disease methods as vagrant as the prisoners. We believe that each man who is able should contribute his share of the day's work. Nature abhors a vacuum and the corrigendum in general abhor the constitutional rattle. If the drone work not neither shall he eat. We believe that crime should be punished. Vagrancy is a crime under the law. Punishment is generally and necessarily effected by the restraint of liberty within a penal institution. Vagrants are in jail generally in jail or workhouse.

But how? What are the conditions of American jails? Do they check vagrancy? Do they punish justly? Do they reform?

AN ANSWER has recently been made public which is a scathing arraignment of conditions in a great majority of American county jails. All the more scathing and staggering because made after a careful investigation by a committee of the National Prison Congress which does not seek sensationalism. The following paragraphs are almost random quotations from the report:

"If the only or chief purpose of jails were to keep wild beasts in cages, most of the jails are well enough adapted for this purpose. The customary mode of serving food is revolting demoralizing and often dangerous to health. Often we must imagine bunk over bunk in the same cell or cage crowded until the horrors of stench or suffocation are indescribable. Under an open jail system the filthiest vilest prisoner punishes or tortures those who have not yet sunk to his level. The very structure of the ordinary jail is radically wrong and offends against the laws of health. Almost all the reports from jails record the dull monotonous, maddening tramp of prisoners walking aimlessly up and down the corridor. It is the path of lunacy. Why not have walled yards in the open air, partly sheltered from rain, covered over with steel wire to prevent escape? But this plan is rarely thought of. Card playing is the universal resource for passing the dull and anxious waking hours. Many examples are given of excessive overcrowding.

Table showing the prisoners committed in the United States for vagrancy in 1904, the length of sentences, and the percentages of commitments for various periods.

other inmates and in addition he is often glad to hibernate or spend a few weeks where warmth food idleness and the company of vicious fellows is assured. Are we not often by administering the law condemning the vagrant to further depths of degeneracy? What do the reports of chiefs of police show? The writer recently received extended reports from 50 chiefs representing as many different cities representative of large and small municipalities. The letters showed that in most instances vagrants are committed to jails less frequently to workhouses, and in a few

In Birmingham Ala. 240 men in 72 cells 25 women in ten cells. The inmates of jails are chiefly of two classes—those awaiting trial and convicted misdemeanants. The ordinary term of convicted misdemeanants vagrants and inebriates is too short for any sort of industrial training or systematic production. A careful study of the situation in all parts of the land has long ago driven many to the conclusion that we must have distinct labor colonies or workhouses for those convicted of offenses and that the term of degenerates must be at least two years if we really intend to fit them for useful lives.

THE committee plainly shows that under present conditions and laws the county jail must provide for males and females children youth and adults first offenders habitual criminals vagabonds prostitutes witnesses held for their testimony poor debtors whose crime is their poverty idiots imbeciles insane epileptics persons arrested on suspicion and apoplectics whom the sapient police man could not distinguish from drunkards. All these save the report are often under one roof and management in a building so built that cries and whispers travel along a corridor with cages open at the side.

Now what chance is there in the average jail for the reformation of the imprisoned vagrant? We may think that Jack London draws the long bow in his picturesque descriptions of life on the road but in his tale of imprisonment in the Erie county jail he never wrote of such horrifying conditions as are described by the report of the committee of which Prof. Charles R. Henderson of the University of Chicago was chairman. What chance above all has the detained witness or suspect held in the jail for his testimony and innocent before the law until he is proven guilty? What chance has he of not suffering contamination and gaining a hatred of society that will not die? In many county jails the only exercise enjoyed by the prisoners is in a common large room with steel grating separating it from the surrounding corridors and called in jail parlance the bull pen.

ARE we not then in a wretched dilemma we who urge that the vagrant receive treatment that will deter and reform? Shall we know jail conditions allow him to roam at large? But the vagrant habit is fostered by idleness mendicancy and the absence of prosecution. Even as it is the unwillingness of many police officials or magistrates to prosecute tramps is well known. When the vagrant is told to get out of town or be run in he of course decamps and the town finances are spared while the neighboring community receives the shifted burden. Yet it the convicted vagrant is sent to jail he becomes a source of contamination to instances to the penitentiary. Boston Lowell and other Massachusetts towns report sending some vagrants to the state farm where there is a nine months sentence. In these jails and workhouses the labor required when there is any consists generally of breaking stone in quarry or in jail yard roadmaking chaircaning chair making and farm work. This work is on paper. There is little or no effort made to bring reformatory influences to bear on those serving short sentences or to teach a trade. Even at the Massachusetts state farm where the workhouse conditions are far better than in most correctional institutions where misdemeanants of the vagrant or inebriate class are confined the industries maintained seem to be far more largely carried on as sentences than as chances to earn a living.

MANY of the cities use the Bertillon system of identification measurements. One chief reports asking the usual questions another the name and address—as though a vagrant's name and address would be of value? What a contrast is this to the elaborate Belgian system for the identification of vagrants which centers in the "caser centrale de vagabondage," a general identification bureau at Brussels? In Belgium the process of trying an arrested vagrant is speedy and thorough. As soon as the police arrest a vagrant they communicate by telegraph with Brussels. Within a few hours there is sent back from Brussels by telegraph a full description of the vagrant and of his previous career if anything of the prisoner is on record. On the following morning the magistrate who is a graduate of the university has before him sufficient material about this particular vagrant to enable him to form an adequate judgment of the case. Coupled with this carefulness and completeness of investigation legislation and adequacy of judgment is the Belgian system for the punishment of vagrants which differs so essentially from our opportunist methods as to be staggering at first to contemplate. We bunch our vagrants in law. In New York state the man with no money no work and no visible means of support is a vagrant. That such a man is not often jailed unless the case is aggravated by other factors is not the fault of the law so to speak but is due to the unwillingness of magistrates to commit the unemployed homeless or to the indifference of the authorities. But in Belgium the state of no work no home no money is not a crime unless there is added to that the state of intentional idleness.

PRISONERS COMMITTED IN THE UNITED STATES DURING 1904
The table classifies the principal offenses, showing total number of sentences for each offense and percentage of each class of offenses to total number of sentences, 149,891.

BUT when Belgium does commit a vagrant then were to the liberty of that vagrant for a long period. Conviction is to a depot de mendicite for from two to seven years. The depot de mendicite is at Merxplas a great industrial colony with accommodations for about 5,000 prisoners. Here there occurs a classification the worst elements being at night placed in solitary confinement and otherwise placed under strict discipline. Intensive labor is carried on the work being graded according to the physical ability of the individual inmates.

The Belgian treatment of vagrants brings out prominently several facts in the first place Belgium believes in getting vagrants off the streets and highways. Some years ago the minister of justice declared that there was no vagabondage in Belgium. This statement needs interpreting. There is probably fairly little vagrancy along the highways because every vagrant must be apprehended and made to show cause through his papers or by the absence of a record at Brussels why he should not be sent to the depot de mendicite. The fact that Merxplas contains about 5,000 inmates and that the average period of detention is 18 months and that the majority of the inmates are returned to Merxplas for succeeding offenses of vagrancy, shows that vagrancy in Belgium is not eradicated from the social body but removed as much as possible from society.

SECONDLY Belgium does not regard all vagrants alike. If there are extenuating circumstances, or if the case of vagrancy seems the result of physical incapacity, the apprehend ed vagrant is sent to a maison de refuge, which, besides acting as a kind of almshouse for the aged and handicapped serves somewhat as do the voluntary colonies of Germany for those wanderers who at the time of their coming within the law are unfit through ignorance illness or inefficiency to make their living.

Thirdly Belgium does not expect that any large proportion of its vagrant population will be reformed. Most of the vagrants at Merxplas are recidivists repeaters who have reached their present position through drink.

Fourthly Belgium believes that vagrancy being a social disease developed through months and years, cannot be cured by 30 days of idleness in a demoralizing jail. The average term of detention is 16 months long enough to effect a considerable cure, if cure is possible.

In Germany and in Switzerland the treatment of the habitual vagrant is similar to that prevailing in Belgium. There are 24 compulsory labor colonies in Germany the average length of sentence being one year. Numerous industries are carried on and the cost is comparatively small. These workhouses have diminished vagrancy, while the 34 voluntary labor colonies, accommodating nearly 4,000 persons, show no evidence of any substantial improvement resulting from the time spent in the colonies. In Switzerland there are several compulsory colonies, the sentences being from six months to two years.

THE Swiss colony of Witzwyl which Mr. Edmond Kelly has recently described in detail in his book on "The Elimination of the Tramp" shows that in a certain proportion of cases the inmates committed to a compulsory labor colony do not reform and rejoin the ranks of the industrial army. A trained English investigator stated recently regarding Witzwyl that there is no doubt that the fact of having worked hard for a year or 18 months makes a man apt to get into the habit of working and this is believed to be the actual result in Switzerland.

What then shall we say regarding the treatment of vagrancy in the United States? First that at present it is thoroughly inadequate. As statistics and the accompanying diagrams show 67 per cent of the commitments to penal institutions are to county jails and workhouses in which the conditions are often exceptionally bad. Drunkenness vagrancy and disorderly conduct were responsible for more than half the commitments during 1904 to penal institutions in the United States. For these three offenses the county jails and workhouses to which the large majority of offenders are committed offer practically no reformatory influences. For more serious crimes such as burglary, robbery assault forgery etc. there are reformatory and state prisons in which latter institutions some reformatory influence is felt.

THE sentences for vagrancy are in over 90 per cent of the cases for six months or less and the largest percentage of commitments is shown to be for less than one month. No cure for vagrancy can be had under such conditions. New York state leads all other states of our country in the number of its commitments for vagrancy. The burden of vagrancy in the United States was represented in 1904 by over 28,000 commitments, being about 20 per cent of all commitments to penal institutions during that year.

This brief resume of the present conditions inevitably points to the necessity of a material change in our system of combating vagrancy. In this connection it is of special interest that within recent months a bill has been drafted in New York state providing for the establishment of a farm colony upon lines very similar to that of the Swiss compulsory colony Witzwyl. This bill, which has the approval of the leading charitable societies of New York city and of several trunk lines terminating in New York and which will be introduced into the next legislature, provides for the establishment in New York state of a compulsory labor colony, with indeterminate sentence, regular labor, reformatory influences and classification of prisoners.

ELECTRIC CANNON

WAR ENGINE WITH RANGE OF TWO HUNDRED MILES

Sea Coast Cities Could Be Destroyed by Shells from Ships Far Out at Sea Beyond Range of Ordinary Guns.

An electric cannon with a range of 200 miles is said to be one of the recent developments in war equipment tidings of such a tremendous weapon having come from England. With such a cannon France could easily destroy great cities of England, and England could as easily do the same by France. Germany could plant her batteries 200 miles from the French border and blot out great cities and the French could give them tit for tat. A gun placed on top of the Alps could destroy countless millions of dollars worth of property.

How would Boston feel if a fleet 200 miles out in the Atlantic were able to train guns on her? Or how would Canada feel if from a position well on the United States side of the Canadian boundary we were able to hurl huge shells at her?

Some wireless scout might report that a missile was on the way. It would take a full minute even with the enormous initial velocity of six miles a second for the destructive visitor to arrive. A minute is long enough to get thoroughly scared in but scarcely gives the opportunity for an entire population to escape.

If there were any sound accompanying the discharge it would be heard about 16 minutes after the arrival of the projectile. Probably no warning would be given.

Let the wireless buzz and the aero planes go scouting at all points of the compass in search of the destroyer of cities. Boston might be blotted out in the few hours required with the best luck to find the enemy. And if the location of the enemy is known at the beginning and fire fights fire the enemy has a city for a target while the defenders must aim at a tiny bullseye.

Such speculations would seem to be long to the school of novelistic dreamers of the future. However they are soberly advanced is made a not very far over the future horizon by Col. Frederic N. Maude C. P. a military authority and lecturer in military history at Manchester university in England.

It appears to Col. Maude writing in the Contemporary Review that the invention of the electric gun is the greatest discovery of the age. It is the invention of Mr. Simpson formerly known as a metallurgical expert. It is unlike any gun ever known since it has no recoil the lay mind can hardly conceive the possibility of a projectile leaving a gun at terrific speed, yet having no backward push. Whether powder or compressed air is used in the ordinary gun there is a powerful recoil proportionate to the charge and the weight of the weapon. It may be surmised that the electric projectile is not driven but drives itself by means of propellers constituting an aerial torpedo or a self directed aeroplane of destruction.

There is no sound or smoke. The initial velocity is 30,000 feet a second. This is traveling close to six miles a second a speed heretofore undreamed of for projectiles of any sort.

Half a mile a second is about the limit for powder driven projectiles.

Boston at Mercy of Hostile Fleet

The electric weapon is able to propel missiles of any desirable dimensions and weight up to 2,000 pounds.

It is imaginable that at a distance of 50 miles the velocity would be sufficient to bore any battleship or building with a solid projectile while the mere conveyance of high explosives at a greater range would be sufficient to be destructive.

It is assumed that 200 miles will be the effective range. At this estimate the nations of Europe could mutually devastate their cities without overstepping frontiers. A small march in state could blow up half a dozen metropolises. Bombs could be dispensed from London to a circuit of cities including Liverpool Amsterdam Brussels and Paris. The channel would interpose no obstacle to a duel between the French and English capital torpedoes flying through the air in opposite directions to destroy Westminster and the Pantheon the houses of parliament and the Louvre.

The dirigible balloon and the aero plane are the only means suggested to cope with the new terror. They might explore the country locate the enemy and drop packages of dynamite on him unless he annihilated them first with an aerial torpedo. The alish as how ever will likely become complement any to warfare by electric gun.

THE SEAT OF LIFE

IT IS LOCATED IN MYSTERIOUS GLAND UNDER THE BRAIN

Dr. Charles E. de M. Sajous Claims That It Is and Says His Discovery Means Much for Therapeutics.

There is one great question now agitating the medical profession. Has the seat of life been found at last? Is the whole science of medicine to be revolutionized by the discovery of the functions of a body in the human organism about which as little has been known in the past as about the perplexing appendix that has caused so much trouble?

An impossibility—a ludicrous impossibility—of course many will assert promptly. Galen and Hippocrates have been too long dead. Metchnikoff and Koch too long alive to make the idea anything less than laughable.

Yet, denuded of its scientific phraseology it was precisely that which brought together in Philadelphia, a short time ago the two great national bodies.

They joined to hear from the lips of Dr. Charles E. de M. Sajous a discourse on "The Auto-Protective Resources of the Body." A New Foundation for Scientific Therapeutics.

Just where the head rests upon the column of the spine, directly under the human brain is located a small gland to which science succeeded in giving a name and nothing more.

Science called it the pituitary body. Sajous work it is said has demonstrated that this gland is the last secret stronghold of the life of man, and the fluids which the pituitary body produces are those which govern the products of the adrenal system.

Located on the very top of the spinal column immediately below the brain protected on all sides with the utmost care lies the pituitary body. To its role in the economy of the human body a recently published text book of physiology devotes seven lines. Indeed beyond the fact that it was supposed to provide some sort of a secretion—the purpose of which had never been found—nothing was known as to the actual role of its forward lobe while its posterior lobe had been relegated to the rank of a remnant from man's evolution.

Sajous demonstrates it is claimed not only that this conception is false but that the pituitary body in its relations to the functions of the body at large is even more important than the brain itself. None of these functions is impaired when the cerebral hemispheres of the brain are removed all cease however when the pituitary body is submitted to the same removal.

The brain as the organ of the mind can utilize the spinal system with which it is connected to execute its mandates but the spinal system is also supplied with its own brain the pituitary body which Sajous terms the somatic brain the governing organ of all vegetative functions. He shows moreover that this somatic brain contains a delicate organ whose mission is to protect the body against disease.

Sajous studied this organ in the animal scale and found it in all animals down to such low forms as mollusks where it bears a suggestive name given to it by zoologists—the stomastron or osphradium, and is known by them to have the function of testing the water for these lowly beings as they pass through it and take it in.

In the higher vertebrates including man this stomastron protects against disease.

Thus it is asserted that in the somatic brain in the pituitary body—in that raw and tiny brain of the human being whose functions Sajous has at last discovered—lies the ultimate seat of human life, lies the citadel which is the very center of the agents that guard against the destruction of life.

LINE-UP OF GIRLS' GAME

Police Protection Asked and Granted ---None Under Thirty Years to Play.

The managers of both teams are anxious for police protection on the day of the game and especially during the parade. The following letters were passed between Chief of Police Geo. Culver in regard to mounted officers taking part in the parade and giving their protection to the teams especially:

Dear Sir:—
As you probably have noticed from the press the Merry Widows and Old Maids and other members of the city administration, as well as other prominent citizens, will be out in parade Saturday, Aug. 17 at 5 p. m., on which date at Sunrise Park will be given a benefit for the Ada baseball boys of our city. Now chief I feel a little uneasy about taking these Merry Widows and Old Maids out on the streets without police protection, I would therefore ask that you give us a full detail of mounted police to be in command of the chief, thanking you for many courtesies heretofore shown
Yours truly,

MANAGERS

In answer to above, Chief Culver sent the following reply:
Managers Both Teams.

Dear Ladies:—
The request for police protection and an escort in the parade of the Merry Widows and Old Maids on Saturday, Aug. 17, will be granted.

and I shall in person, head the procession to the ball park and safely guard the infants who take part in the game. Wishing you every success in such a charitable cause,
I remain,

GEO. CULVER,
Chief of Police.

The lineup for the game has been announced as follows:

Merry Widows.
Mary Couch, p; Beulah Worthington, 1b; May Leace, ss; Art Adair, 2b; Alma Baker, 3b; Ada Warren, lf; Nannie Couch, rf; Minnie West, cf; Miss Matthews substitute.

W. J. BRYAN IS NOTIFIED

Great Crowd at Lincoln and Much Enthusiasm---J. H. Kern an Orator.

Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 12.—"Recognizing that I am indebted for my nomination to the rank and file of our party and that my election must come, if it comes at all, from the unpurchased and unpurchasable suffrage of the American people, entrusted with the responsibilities of this high office, I promise to consecrate whatever ability I have to the one purpose of making this in fact a government in which the people rule, a government which will do justice to all and offer to every one the highest possible stimulus to great effort by insuring to each the enjoyment of his just share of the proceeds of his toil, no matter in what part of the vineyard he labors or, to what occupation, profession or calling he devotes himself."

Thus spoke W. J. Bryan this afternoon in accepting the nomination as the candidate of the democratic party for the presidency of the United States.

Amid cheers and waving of flags, Mr. Bryan was escorted from the Lincoln Hotel through the streets of Lincoln to the capitol grounds, where the notification took place.

In the carriage with him was John W. Kern of Indiana, the candidate for the vice presidency. It was no new experience for Nebraska's distinguished citizen, he having twice before been similarly honored by his party, but it was the first time that Mr. Bryan's home town had been afforded the opportunity to participate in the ceremonies.

Great Crowds Greet Bryan.

Long before the time set for the exercises to begin, the capitol grounds had become packed with humanity. It was a veritable sea of faces that met Mr. Bryan's gaze as he stepped to the front of the platform and received the official word from Henry D. Clayton of Alabama that he was democracy's head of the ticket. As the democratic candidate emerged from the capitol building on to the platform, in company with Gov. Sheldon, Mayor Brown and others of the committee on arrangements, a mighty cheer went up from the multitude which continued for several minutes. As soon as Mr. Bryan was seated, National Chairman Norman E. Mack, who was introduced by Vice Chairman P. L. Hall, rapped for order. Rev. Father John F. Nager of Des Moines, Iowa, delivered the invocation. Before introducing Mr. Clayton, Chairman Mack presented John W. Kern, the vice presidential nominee, who made a brief address.

Mr. Kern's Speech.

Mr. Kern spoke as follows:
"While my friends, the chairman of the national committee, has been kind enough to introduce me as the democratic candidate for vice president, I as yet have no certain official notice of the fact and I therefore can not make a political speech on this occasion. I came here to greet these western people and to join with them without regard to political affiliation in paying tribute to the citizen of Lincoln whom you all love, to the foremost citizen of America, William Jennings Bryan. I have been deeply impressed with what I have seen in Lincoln. It was worth the trip from Indiana, across the Mississippi and across the Missouri, to witness that splendid neighborly spirit which has prompted this magnificent non-partisan demonstration in honor of the man who, without regard to political affiliation, we all love and that leads me to say that,

The recent primary returns are so slow coming in, that some of the candidates may not know whether they are nominated in time to make a canvass before the general election.

That street sprinkler could more effectively lay the dust by covering a greater territory, and letting out more water. It is fine, what there is of it, but we can't get too much of a good thing.

The business and professional men of Ada are liberally taking space in the News's special edition, and none of them will regret the amount it costs. If you have not done so, arrange at once to be represented.

Vice Presidential Candidate Sherman on the republican ticket, is a director or officer in so many corporations and trust companies, that the contributions to the campaign fund from these sources will cause him to contribute quite a sum indirectly.

The Texas democratic convention in session the past week, has had a lively time. The prohibition submissionists had a majority in the convention and Senator Joe Bailey's friends carried off all the honors, and either of these issues in Texas will always insure a warm contest.

Mr. Kern, the democratic nominee for vice president, is an orator, statesman and patriot. His short speech at the notification of Mr. Bryan clearly shows the vice presidential candidate on the democratic ticket to be a spell-binder and vote-getter. Watch the returns from Indiana!

The republican leaders at their Oklahoma City meeting had rather a warm time. Flynn-Hunter-Cade combination got the worst of it from McGuire-Norris-Oreager combine. The latter had the negroes with them, and the lucky republican brother held the balance of power. That is right—they furnish the votes.

Send your dollar to the First National Bank at Ada, to aid in the election of Bryan and Kern. Your name will be published in the News, and later Treasurer Haskell will send you a receipt for your contribution. Do not delay this important matter, as the national committee badly needs funds. The democratic party will have to depend upon the small amounts from the masses to provide the means for campaign expenses. In this contest, every citizen who desires a government for the many and the best interests of the country, ought to aid in overthrowing a million empire.

after all, the great masses of the American people are not so far apart. Partisan spirit no longer runs so high that we can not now and then get out of the miasma of political partisanship, take a step up higher and breathe the fresh, pure air of American patriotism. We recognize in spite of political differences, not only the fatherhood of God, but the brotherhood of man. It reminds me, although we may differ widely, on questions of political economy, of finance, as to the best method of carrying on the complex affairs of this, the greatest government beneath the sun, while we may differ on all these things, and differ earnestly, yet when it comes to a devotion to a common country and love for the grand old starry banner, which is its emblem, we are as indivisible as the sea. SENATOR GORE HERE.

The Distinguished Senator Spent Wednesday Night With His Old Boyhood Friend, Dr. Ligon.

Senator T. P. Gore of Lawton arrived in the city Wednesday afternoon from Sulphur, where he delivered an address. He was met at the train by his old friend, M. W. Ligon, who accompanied him to the club rooms where an informal reception was held in his honor. After meeting several citizens and chatting with many old friends, the senator repaired to the hospitable home of Dr. Ligon and was there a guest this morning until train time. The senator visited many friends over the city, and gave the glad hand to those he met. He left on the noon Katy for Caddo, where he speaks tomorrow.

The senator had nothing important to give out. Commenting upon the speech of acceptance by Mr. Bryan, which appeared in the morning papers, he said that it was masterful, and would get telling results. He remarked that he will spend the major part of September in the national campaign, but did not know at this time where the committee would place him. There seems to be no improvement in the condition of the senator's eyes, but he stated that he will continue the treatment when he returns to Washington.

PROBLEM OF THE AMERICAN TRAMP

HOW SHALL VAGRANCY EVIL BE CHECKED?

Laws of Various States Have Proved Unequal to the Task—Elaborate System for the Cure of Habitual Idleness in Force on the Continent of Europe—Is Striking Contrast to the Futile Efforts That Have Been Made Here in the United States.

NEW YORK—The course of the vagrant's life is a vicious circle. Street park bench cheap lodging house court jail street brake beam court jail etc. so it goes from month to month from hand to mouth from city to city. More accurately stated the vagrant's course is spiral and downward with accelerated momentum toward demoralization, disease and death. Along his road are certain rescue stations—charitable societies, missions, clubstone breadlines, industrial homes, personal visitations in alcoholic wards. These are efforts to extend the helping hand to switch the vagrant from the circular track to the straight ahead line. But generally the momentum is too great. Failures are recorded far in excess of even imagined successes. A. F. Lewis of the Charity Organization Society in the New York Times.

When we seek by imprisonment to deal with the individual vagrant what do we find? Cheaply ineffective in adequate unjust methods of punishment so futile as to be ridiculous were they not so tragic. We find correctional methods in jail that instead of correcting degenerate methods as vagrant as the prisoners. We believe that each man who is able should contribute his share of the day's work. Nature abhors a vacuum and the community in general abhors the constitutional idler. If the drone work not neither shall he eat. We believe that crime should be punished. Vagrancy is a crime under the law. Punishment is generally and needs easily effected by the restraint of liberty within a penal institution. Vagrants are not so generally in jail or workhouses.

But how?

What are the conditions of American jails?

Do they check vagrancy?

Do they punish justly?

Do they reform?

AN ANSWER has recently been made public which is a scathing arraignment of conditions in a great majority of American county jails. All the more scathing and staggering because made after a careful investigation by a committee of the National Prison Congress which does not seek sensationalism. The following paragraphs are almost random quotations from the report:

"If the only or chief purpose of jails were to keep wild beasts in cages, most of the jails are well enough adapted for this purpose. The customary mode of serving food is revolting demoralizing and often dangerous to health. Often we must imagine bunk over bunk in the same cell or cage crowded until the horrors of stench or suffocation are indescribable. Under an open jail system the filthiest vilest prisoner punishes or tortures those who have not yet sunk to his level. The very structure of the ordinary jail is radically wrong and offends against the laws of health. Almost all the reports from jails record the dull monotonous, maddening tramp of prisoners walking aimlessly up and down the corridor. It is the path of lunacy. Why not have walled yards in the open air, partly sheltered from rain, covered over with steel wire to prevent escape? But this plan is rarely thought of. Card playing is the universal resource for passing the dull and anxious waking hours. Many examples are given of excessive overcrowding.

other inmates and in addition he is often glad to hibernate or spend a few weeks in warmth food idleness and the company of vicious fellows is assured. Are we not often by administering the law condemning the vagrant to further depths of degeneracy?

What do the reports of chiefs of police show? The writer recently received extended reports from 50 chiefs representing as many different cities representative of large and small municipalities. The letters showed that in most instances vagrants are committed to jails less frequently to workhouses, and in a few

In Birmingham Ala. 240 men in 72 cells 25 women in ten cells. The inmates of jails are chiefly of two classes—those awaiting trial and convicted misdemeanants. The old many term of convicted misdemeanants, vagrants and inebriates is too short for any sort of industrial training or systematic production. A careful study of the situation in all parts of the land has long ago driven many to the conclusion that we must have distinct labor colonies or workhouses for those convicted of offenses and that the term of degenerates must be at least two years if we really intend to fit them for useful lives.

THE committee plainly shows that under present conditions and laws the county jail must provide for males and females children youth and adults first offenders habitual criminals vagabonds prostitutes witnesses held for their testimony poor debtors whose crime is their poverty idiots imbeciles insane epileptics persons arrested on suspicion and apoplectics whom the sapient police man could not distinguish from drunkards. All these save the report are often under one roof and management in a building so built that cries and whispers travel along a corridor with cages open at the side.

Now what chance is there in the average jail for the reformation of the imprisoned vagrant? We may think that Jack London draws the long howl in his picturesque descriptions of life on the road but in his tale of imprisonment in the Erie county jail he never wrote of such horrifying conditions as are described by the report of the committee of which Prof. Charles R. Henderson of the University of Chicago was chairman. What chance above all has the delinquent witness or suspect held in the jail for his testimony and innocent before the law until he is proven guilty? What chance has he of not suffering contamination and gaining a hatred of society that will not die? In many county jails the only exercise enjoyed by the prisoners is in a common large room with steel grating separating it from the surrounding corridors and called in jail parlance the bull pen.

ARE we not then in a wretched dilemma we who urge that the vagrant receive treatment that will deter and reform? Shall we know jail conditions allow him to roam at large? But the vagrant habit is fostered by idleness mendicancy and the absence of prosecution. Even as it is the unwillingness of many police officials or magistrates to prosecute tramps is well known. When the vagrant is told to get out of town or be run in he of course decamps and the town finances are spared while the neighboring community receives the shifted burden. Yet if the convicted vagrant is sent to jail he becomes a source of contamination to instances to the penitentiary. Boston Lowell and other Massachusetts towns report sending some vagrants to the state farm where there is a nine months sentence. In these jails and workhouses the labor required when there is any consists generally of breaking stone in quarry or in jail yard roadmaking chaircaning chair making and farm work. This work is on paper. There is little or no effort made to bring reformatory influences to bear on those serving short sentences or to teach a trade. Even at the Massachusetts state farm where the workhouse conditions are far better than in most correctional institutions where misdemeanants of the vagrant or inebriate class are confined the industries maintained seem to be far more largely carried on as sentences than as chances to earn a living.

MANY of the cities use the Bertillon system of identification measurements. One chief reports asking the usual questions another the name and address—as though a vagrant's name and address would be of value! What a contrast is this to the elaborate Belgian system for the identification of vagrants which centers in the (caser centrale de vagabondage) a general identification bureau at Brussels? In Belgium the process of trying an arrested vagrant is speedy and thorough. As soon as the police arrest a vagrant they communicate by telegraph with Brussels. Within a few hours there is sent back from Brussels by telegraph a full description of the vagrant and of his previous career. If anything of the prisoner is on record. On the following morning the magistrate who is a graduate of the university has before him sufficient material about this particular vagrant to enable him to form an adequate judgment of the case. Coupled with this carefulness, and completeness of investigation registration and adequacy of judgment is the Belgian system for the punishment of vagrants which differs so essentially from our opportunist methods as to be staggering at first to contemplate. We bunch our vagrants in law. In New York state the man with no money no work and no visible means of support is a vagrant. That such a man is not often jailed unless the case is aggravated by other factors is not the fault of the law so to speak but is due to the unwillingness of magistrates to commit the unemployed homeless or to the indifference of the authorities. But in Belgium the state of no work no home no money is not a crime unless a there is added to that the state of intentional idleness.

But when Belgium does commit a vagrant then were to the liberty of that vagrant for a long period. Conviction is to a depot de mendicite for from two to seven years. The depot de mendicite is at Merselas a great industrial colony with accommodations for about 5,000 prisoners. Here there occurs a classification the worst elements being at night placed in solitary confinement and otherwise placed under strict discipline. Intensive labor is carried on the work being graded according to the physical ability of the individual inmates.

The Belgian treatment of vagrants brings out prominently several facts. In the first place Belgium believes in getting vagrants off the streets and highways. Some years ago the minister of justice declared that there was no vagabondage in Belgium. This statement need interpreting. There is probably fairly little vagrancy along the highways because every vagrant must be apprehended and made to show cause through his papers or by the absence of a record at Brussels why he should not be sent to the depot de mendicite. The fact that Merselas contains about 5,000 inmates and that the average period of detention is 15 months and that the majority of the inmates are returned to Merselas for succeeding offenses of vagrancy, shows that vagrancy in Belgium is not eradicated from the social body but removed as much as such as possible from society.

SECONDLY Belgium does not regard all vagrants alike. If there are extenuating circumstances, or if the case of vagrancy seems the result of physical incapacity, the apprehend ed vagrant is sent to a maison de refuge, which, besides acting as a kind of almshouse for the aged and handicapped serves somewhat as do the voluntary colonies of Germany for those wanderers who at the time of their coming within the law are unfit through ignorance illness or inefficiency to make their living.

Thirdly Belgium does not expect that any large proportion of its vagrant population will be reformed. Most of the vagrants at Merselas are recidivists repeaters who have reached their present position through drink.

Fourthly Belgium believes that vagrancy being a social disease developed through months and years, cannot be cured by 30 days of idleness in a demoralizing jail. The average term of detention is 16 months long enough to effect a considerable cure, if cure is possible.

In Germany and in Switzerland the treatment of the habitual vagrant is similar to that prevailing in Belgium. There are 24 compulsory labor colonies in Germany the average length of sentence being one year. Numerous industries are carried on and the cost is comparatively small. These workhouses have diminished vagrancy, while the 34 voluntary labor colonies, accommodating nearly 4,000 persons, show no evidence of any substantial improvement resulting from the time spent in the colonies. In Switzerland there are several compulsory colonies, the sentences being from six months to two years.

THE Swiss colony of Witzwil which Mr. Edmond Kelly has recently described in detail in his book on The Elimination of the Tramp shows that in a certain proportion of cases the inmates committed to a compulsory labor colony do not reform and rejoin the ranks of the industrial army. A trained English investigator stated recently regarding Witzwil that there is no doubt that the fact of having worked hard for a year or 18 months makes a man apt to get into the habit of working and this is believed to be the actual result in Switzerland.

What then shall we say regarding the treatment of vagrancy in the United States? First that at present it is thoroughly inadequate. As statistics and the accompanying diagrams show 67 per cent of the commitments to penal institutions are to county jails and workhouses in which the conditions are often exceptionally bad. Drunkenness vagrancy and disorderly conduct were responsible for more than half the commitments during 1904 to penal institutions in the United States. For these three offenses the county jails and workhouses to which the large majority of offenders are committed offer practically no reformatory influences. For more serious crimes such as burglary, robbery, assault, forgery, etc. there are reformatory and state prisons in which latter institutions some reformatory influence is felt.

THE sentences for vagrancy are in over 90 per cent of the cases for six months or less and the largest percentage of commitments is shown to be for less than one month. No cure for vagrancy can be had under such conditions. New York state leads all other states of our country in the number of its commitments for vagrancy. The burden of vagrancy in the United States was represented in 1904 by over 28,000 commitments, being about 20 per cent of all commitments to penal institutions during that year.

This brief resume of the present conditions inevitably points to the necessity of a material change in our system of combating vagrancy. In this connection it is of special interest that within recent months a bill has been drafted in New York state providing for the establishment of a farm colony upon lines very similar to that of the Swiss compulsory colony Witzwil. This bill, which has the approval of the leading charitable societies of New York city and of several trunk lines terminating in New York and which will be introduced into the next legislature, provides for the establishment in New York state of a compulsory labor colony, with intermediate sentence, regular labor, reformatory influence and classification of prisoners.

ELECTRIC CANNON

WAR ENGINE WITH RANGE OF TWO HUNDRED MILES

Sea Coast Cities Could Be Destroyed by Shells from Ships Far Out at Sea Beyond Range of Ordinary Guns.

An electric cannon with a range of 200 miles is said to be one of the recent developments in war equipment tidings of such a tremendous weapon having come from England. With such a cannon France could easily destroy great cities of England, and England could as easily do the same by France. Germany could plant her batteries 200 miles from the French border and blot out great cities and the French could give them tit for tat. A gun placed on top of the Alps could destroy countless millions of dollars worth of property.

How would Boston feel if a fleet 200 miles out in the Atlantic were able to train guns on her? Or how would Canada feel if from a position well on the United States side of the Canadian boundary we were able to hurl huge shells at her?

Some wireless scout might report that a missile was on the way. It would take a full minute even with the enormous initial velocity of six miles a second for the destructive visitor to arrive. A minute is long enough to get thoroughly scared in but scarcely gives the opportunity for an entire population to escape.

If there were any sound accompanying the discharge it would be heard about 16 minutes after the arrival of the projectile. Probably no warning would be given.

Let the wireless buzz and the aero planes go scouting at all points of the compass in search of the destroyer of cities. Boston might be blotted out in the few hours required with the best luck to find the enemy. And if the location of the enemy is known at the beginning and the flight the enemy has a city for a target while the defenders must aim at a tiny bullseye.

Such speculations would seem to be long to the school of novelistic dreamers of the future. However they are soberly advanced as matters not very far over the future horizon by Col. Frederic N. Maude C. P. a military authority and lecturer in military history at Manchester university in England.

It appears to Col. Maude writing in the Contemporary Review that the invention of the electric gun is the greatest discovery of the age. It is the invention of Mr. Simpson formerly known as a metallurgical expert. It is unlike any gun ever known since it has no recoil. The inventor can hardly conceive the possibility of a projectile leaving a gun at terrific speed, yet having no backward push. Whether powder or compressed air is used in the ordinary gun there is a powerful recoil proportionate to the charge and the weight of the weapon. It may be surmised that the electric projectile is not driven but drives itself by means of propellers constituting an aerial torpedo or a self directed aeroplane of destruction.

There is no sound or smoke. The initial velocity is 30,000 feet a second. This is traveling close to six miles a second a speed heretofore undreamed of for projectiles of any sort.

Half a mile a second is about the limit for powder driven projectiles.

Boston at Mercy of Hostile Fleet

The electric weapon is able to propel missiles of any desirable dimensions and weight up to 2,000 pounds.

It is imaginable that at a distance of 50 miles the velocity would be sufficient to bore any battleship or building with a solid projectile while the mere conveyance of high explosives at a greater range would be sufficient to be destructive.

It is assumed that 200 miles will be the effective range. At this estimate the nations of Europe could mutually devastate their cities without overstepping frontiers. A small maritime state could blow up half a dozen metropolises. Bombs could be dispensed from London to a circuit of cities including Liverpool Amsterdam Brussels and Paris. The channel would interpose no obstacle to a duel between the French and English capital, torpedoes flying through the air in opposite directions to destroy Westminster and the Pantheon the houses of parliament and the Louvre.

The dirigible balloon and the aero plane are the only means suggested to cope with the new terror. They might explore the country locate the enemy and drop packages of dynamite on him unless he annihilated them first with an aerial torpedo. The ships how ever will likely become complemented by warships by electric gun.

THE SEAT OF LIFE

IT IS LOCATED IN MYSTERIOUS GLAND UNDER THE BRAIN

Dr. Charles E. de M. Sajous Claims That It Is and Says His Discovery Means Much for Therapeutics.

There is one great question now agitating the medical profession. How the seat of life been found it last? Is the whole science of medicine to be revolutionized by the discovery of the functions of a body in the human organism about which as little has been known in the past as about the perplexing appendix that has caused so much trouble?

An impossibility—a ludicrous impossibility—of course many will assert promptly. Galen and Hippocrates have been too long dead. Metchnikoff and Koch too long alive to make the idea anything less than laughable.

Yet, denuded of its scientific phraseology it was precisely that which brought together in Philadelphia, a short time ago the two great national bodies.

They joined to hear from the lips of Dr. Charles E. de M. Sajous a discourse on The Auto-Protective Resources of the Body. A new Foundation for Scientific Therapeutics.

Just where the head rests upon the column of the spine, directly under the human brain is located a small gland to which science succeeded in giving a name and nothing more.

Science called it the pituitary body. Sajous work it is said has demonstrated that this gland is the last secret stronghold of the life of man, and the fluids which the pituitary body produces are those which govern the products of the adrenal system.

I located on the very top of the spinal column immediately below the brain protected on all sides with the utmost care lies the pituitary body. To its role in the economy of the human body a recently published text book of physiology devotes seven lines. Indeed beyond the fact that it was supposed to provide some sort of a secretion—the purpose of which had never been found—nothing was known as to the actual role of its forward lobe while its posterior lobe had been relegated to the rank of a remnant from man's evolution.

Sajous demonstrates it is claimed not only that this conception is false but that the pituitary body in its relations to the functions of the body at large is even more important than the brain itself. None of these functions is impaired when the cerebral hemispheres of the brain are removed all cease however when the pituitary body is submitted to the same removal.

The brain as the organ of the mind can utilize the spinal system with which it is connected to exercise its mandates but the spinal system is also supplied with its own human pituitary body which Sajous terms the somatic brain the governing organ of all vegetative functions. He shows moreover that this somatic brain contains a delicate organ whose mission is to protect the body against disease.

Sajous studied this organ in the animal scale and found it in all animals down to such low forms as mollusks where it bears a suggestive name given to it by zoologists, the stolon or osphradium, and is known by them to have the function of testing the water for these lowly beings as they pass through it and take it in.

In the higher vertebrates including man this stolon protects against disease.

Thus it is asserted that in the somatic brain (in the pituitary body) in that raw and thus brain of the human being whose functions Sajous has at last discovered—the ultimate seat of human life, lies the citadel which is the very center of the agents that guard against the destruction of life.
